see temperature

Elevated temperature can be an indicator of many viral infections, including COVID-19. To reduce the risk of exposure, non-contact methods for measuring temperature are preferred as a first line defense. Thermal monitoring solutions provide a safe way to keep your business running smoothly and safely. Professional design & installation of such solutions is critical, as incorrect angles, heights & other details can affect accuracy.

Note: Thermal monitoring solutions are not medical devices & are not designed for diagnosis, prevention or treatment of any disease or condition.
